

SYLLABUS: ENG 270

Course Number Course Name	270 CHILDREN'S LITERATURE
Credit Value (Breakdown of theory and lab credits)	3 Theory
Catalog Course Description	In order to develop an understanding of children's literature from a multicultural perspective, you will explore stories and novels written for children from various cultures, with an emphasis on Native American and Hispanic cultures. Through class discussion and essays, you will develop literary analysis of these works, focusing on issues of cultural identity and conflict. To help you better grasp the role of children's literature in our community, you will participate in a service-learning project that supports literacy and cultural awareness among local youth. Prerequisite: ENG 111. (3, 3T+0S)
Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives /Competencies of the Course	Demonstrate ability to analyze children's texts from analytical, pedagogical, and creative perspectives. Gain appreciation for children's literature from a multicultural perspective
College-Wide Student Learning Outcomes	ENG 270 addresses the following College-wide Learning Outcomes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cultural Sustainability