

SYLLABUS: ENG 294

Course Number Course Name	294 MYTHOLOGY
Credit Value (Breakdown of theory and lab credits)	3 Theory
Catalog Course Description	Provides a comparison and study of the mythologies of a variety of civilizations and their influences on literature. The course may focus on different mythologies depending on the semester. The areas of study may include Greek mythology, Roman mythology, Celtic mythology, and/or Native American mythology. May be repeated twice for credit if the topic varies. Prerequisite: ENG 111. (3, 3T+0S)
Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives /Competencies of the Course	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • explore ways both individuals and cultures use myth, ritual, and ceremony; • learn to read and interpret symbolic material; • master the basic theoretical issues involved in mythological studies; • recognize basic patterns and mythological motifs in both myths and in the presentation of everyday culture.
College-Wide Student Learning Outcomes	ENG 294 addresses the following College-wide Learning Outcomes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Critical Thought • Cultural Sustainability