

Course Number Course Name	ES 320 ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS
Credit Value (Breakdown of theory and lab credits)	3 Theory
Catalog Course Description	You will study values systems underlying human relations to the natural environment with emphasis on issues that arise when these values conflict, beginning with a discussion of our current environmental crises, different approaches to solving these crises, and issues of environmental justice and how science and knowledge affect decisions.
Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives /Competencies of the Course	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Understand major debates in both philosophical ethics and environmental philosophy. 2. Develop students' public speaking skills. 3. Facilitate critical reading, writing, and thinking skills through reading and writing about environmental issues of historic significance or current debate. 4. Encourage scholarly collaboration and self-directed learning.
College-Wide Student Learning Outcomes	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Communication Communication will be assessed by student actively debating current topics within the areas of environmental ethics.