This 3-week mini-course will examine wisdom traditions through history and around the world, focusing on wisdom classics and modern works that carry ancient wisdom. The course will begin in Ancient India and end with Native wisdom from the New Mexico Pueblos.

Monday and Wednesday sessions will be lectures. Fridays will be discussions. Friday discussions will be led by Arthur Feinsod and JB Moore, except the final Friday which will include Tessie & Tito Naranjo, and Poem Swentzell.

READING LIST: The reading list includes: The Bhagavad-Gita (“Song of God” from The Mahabharata); essays by Mahatma Gandhi inspired by the “Gita”; Sophocles’ Antigone; Plato’s “Allegory of the Cave”; works by Seneca and Lucretius; and selections from O Wowat’si Tuwaeji (Seeking Life) by Tito Naranjo.

CONTINUING EDUCATION For those taking this as Continuing Education there will, of course, be no exams or papers; if a traditional student wants to join and take it for credit, writing assignments and an examination can be added just for them. The student can earn either one or two college credits.
